Knowledge Map 6.1

Survival Behaviors

- Offspring
- Transformation
- Hunting
- Senses
The wood frog freezes and thaws.

Insects begin as eggs, hatch as nymphs or larvae, and molt into adults.

Insects hide their eggs to protect them.

Animals follow a life cycle and reproduce.

Survival Behaviors

Offspring

Transformation

Hunting

Senses
Survival Behaviors

- Insects hide their eggs to protect them.
- The wood frog freezes and thaws.
- An octopus can camouflage itself.
- Insects begin as eggs, hatch as nymphs or larvae, and molt into adults.

Offspring

- Hide or wait to catch their prey
- Snakes use their tongues to smell.
- Elephants can smell from several miles away.

Transformation

Senses

Grade 3 | Build Knowledge
Survival Behaviors

- Hunting
  - sneak up on prey and pounce
  - hide or wait to catch their prey

- Transformation
  - The wood frog freezes and thaws.
  - Insects begin as eggs, hatch as nymphs or larvae, and molt into adults.
  - An octopus can camouflage itself.

- Senses
  - Snakes use their tongues to smell.
  - Elephants can smell from several miles away.

- Offspring
  - Animals follow a life cycle and reproduce.
  - Insects hide their eggs to protect them.